Foreword EHF President

Dear handball friends,

Last stop on long road to Hamburg

With the quarter-finals coming up, the EHF European League Men is only one step away from the final destination of its 2023/24 season. Eight teams are still on board, but only four of them will be able to complete their journey at the EHF Finals Men 2024 at the Barclays Arena in Hamburg on 25/26 May.

The current season saw a significant change in the playing format, as the number of participants (after qualification) was raised from 24 to 32. Following the group matches, the main round, and the play-offs, the competition is now down to the quarter-finals – just like in previous seasons.

With four spots at the EHF Finals at stake, the quarter-finals on 23 and 30 April will provide handball fans across the globe with two more Tuesday nights full of thrilling action. Who will book their ticket to Hamburg?

Germany lost one contender in the play-offs – TSV Hannover-Burgdorf – but is still represented by no less than three teams – and they are avoiding each other in the quarter-finals.

Defending champions Füchse Berlin were forced to go through the play-off round and now meet French side HBC Nantes, who advanced directly from the main round, in a mouth-watering matchup.

Former EHF Champions League winners SG Flensburg-Handewitt take on IK Sävehof, the team from Sweden that eliminated Hannover in the previous phase.

And Rhein-Neckar Löwen, who hosted the inaugural EHF Finals three years ago, hope to return to the season-ending highlight as they face strong opposition from Portuguese side Sporting CP.

The only quarter-final with no German participation features two recent EHF Champions League contenders, as Dinamo Bucuresti from Romania aim for their first EHF Finals berth when they cross swords with the last Danish team standing, Skjern Håndbold.

This staggering lineup guarantees two more exciting Tuesday nights with four tightly contested pairings as the EHF European League will once again live up to its billing: 'ALL IN – Greatness is earned.'

Enjoy the quarter-finals!

Yours in sport,

Michael Wiederer
EHF President
